Say That Never in Recent Years Has Such a Bunch of Political Hacks Been Put Forward as Candidates for the Supreme Court Bench by Any Combination. After investigating the records and characters of the various candidates nominated by Tammany Hall and the Independence League for judicial office in this county, under the terms of the deal between Charles F. Murphy and William R. Hearst, the Judiciary Nominators gave out a statement yesterday in which they declared that never in recent years has any combination of political or commercial interests put forth such a collection of unfit candidates for the bench.

When the deal was made Murphy named six of the Supreme Court candidates and Hearst four, one of the Murphy six being Justice Giegerich, who has been nominated by all parties to succeed himself. Since then the Hearst crowd has gone back on Brady, one of Murphy's candidates, and that place is vacant on the Independence League ticket, Magistrate Matthew .P. Breen declining to be substituted. The Murphy nominees remaining are M. Warley Platzek, Mitchell L. Erlanger, John J. Brady, Peter Hendrick and Charles L. The Hearst nominees are John W. Goff. John Ford, Samuel Seabury and Charles W. Dayton.

According to the statement of the Nominators these candidates for high judicial honors, with terms of office of fourteen years each and a salary of $17,500 annually. are a choice aggregation of political hacks who secured their nominations through veoman service to the political besses they followed. The same, they sav, applies to the nominees for General Sessions. In view of Mr. Hearst's many utterances against corporation lawyers and the blight of corporation influences upon the judiciary it is interesting to note the Nominators say, that nearly every one of the nominees for the Supreme Court on the Murphy-Hearst ticket is either a director in or counsel for one or more corporations.

As a result of investigating the "qualifi-cations" of each of the blurph"-Hearst candidates the Nominators sum them up in part as follows:

I. WARDRY PLATZER Counsel for the United Cigar Stores Company, which has driven small eight dealers of business all over the city and out of other cities as well. Also counsel for the

He long has been the right hand man of Louis F. Haffen, the political boss of The Bronx, and has figured in many ing real estate transactions

One of the most interesting of these was the Clason's Point deal, put through by the Sound Realty Company, which purchased a big tract of swamp land, utterly unimproved and apparently worthless. The price was ridiculously small, but as soon as the company made the purchase Brady had sewers right through the heart of the section, so as to increase the value of the land many times. Assessments have been held up on this property, and if Brady is elected he will have the power to appoint one of the assessment commissioners for this property, while his friend, the Borough President, Haffen, will have the appointment of the second comn:issioner, out of a total of three Another deal in which Brady was interested was the passage of the bill for the extension of Bronx Park by adding some two hundred acres, estensibly to prevent the pollution of the Bronx River. then goes on to describe the Tammany

STILL OUESTIONING CLARK.

Chairman Woodruff Not Content With His Hearst Estate Explanations.

Chairman Woodruff of the Republican State committee said yesterday that Edward H. Clark, attorney for the Hearst estate, had failed entirely to answer the questions put to him by the State committee regarding the connection of the Hearst vans, both Big Tim and Little Tim, and it was estate and the Hearst newspapers with Wall

Mr. Clark's statement regarding the Hearst estate, its dealings in Wall Street po promotions at a time that the Hearst newspapers were silent upon these matters is calculated to evade, if not deceive, like almost every statement coming from the Hearst Mr. Clark admits that he was connected with the Hearst estate, and his silence gives assent to the statement so widely made that the estate was engaged in the syndicate, trust, &c., and was a large stockholder in the Metropolitan Railway at the time of the Amsterdam avenue four track agitation, when the New York Journal had not a word to say for the rights of the upper West Side public. It does say, however, that Mr. Hearst has no connection directly or indirectly with the Hearst estate. But Mr. Clark, who is the agent of this estate, has. I am informed, for years had intimate connection with the Hearst newspapers. can readily be proven that Mr. Clark acted as the active manager of the Hearst newspapers several years ago and was in many matters the ultimate authority in the office. I know that he represented those newspapers in a business and executive way, that issued orders to the chief of the concern, and that these orders were obeyed without ques-It may be that Mr. Clark exists in several capacities, or it may be that he is incorporated like the Hearst newspapers and the Hearst league. I know, for instance, that he represented the New York Journal on one occasion when the highest authority representatives of Tyographical Union No. 8 to discuss the question of overtime in con nection with the Sunday issue of the Journal and other papers. By invitation of Mr. Clark the general managers of the papers met the union's representative in the room occupied by Mr. Clark in the establishment of the Hearst's ers in the Tribune Building. I am informed that Mr. Clark was present for the Hearst newspapers and took an active part in Again I am informed on excellent authority that when Mr. Hearst was establishing his newspapers in Chicago the heads of departments received their final directions from Mr. Clark and were by him supplied with the necessary funds. True, he may have been acting in some other capacity than that of the agent of the Hearst estate, but he was presumably the agent of the Hearst estate while performing these services.

Further than this, I am informed that there was at the time no concealment in the offices of the Hearst newspapers that Mr. Clark had been placed in control or had as aumed such control in these offices as the representative of the Hearst estate as a matter of business prudence. There is a pos-sibility that Mr. Clark may have been in authority at the time that the Hearst estate was reported to have been holding a block of Metropolitan stock, and the Hearst news-papers remained silent about the Amsterdam avenue four track matter. I would like to ask him about that. It is a little trying to plain men to have to oppose a candidate who is involved in this maze of Hearst estate, Hearst holding company. Hearst publishing company, and Hearst political league, incorporated. He seems to get all the money he wants from the Hearst estate, but when the Hearst cotate was caught firting with what Mr. Hearst calls a "Plunderbund" then he had neither interest in nor control over it. In the same way Mr. Hearst announces that he has achieved vast reforms through his news-papers, and when a question of personal responsibility or damages is involved he swears he has no control over these news-papers. Mr. Clark, who is a lawyer, ought to clear this up, since Mr. Hearst will not.

IRISHMEN GREET HEARST.

HE IS OVERWHELMED WITH EN-THUSIASM AT CELTIC PARK.

Struggles From Football Field to Grand Stand and Back Again—Finally Succeeds in Tossing the Pigskin to Open a Game Between Cork and Tipperary.

William R Hearst got a riproarious reception at Celtic Park yesterday afternoon. Cork and Tipperary were butting each other at Gaelic football when Mr. Hearst drove into the park and 15,000 Irish men and Irish women were packed in the grand stand and around the oval following the game excitedly. The instant he appeared the jerseyed football players dropped the game and made a rush for him. The whole crowd lost interest in the games and surged around him, sweeping the police off their feet and dragging the candidate from grand stand to field and back again.

It was the worst rough and tumble re-ception Mr. Hearst got this campaign. Police Captain Joe Hayes hadn't enough men to form a flying wedge and the cope couldn't do a thing with the crowd, Hundreds of husky Irishmen, yelling at the top of their voices, broke through the thin police hedge around Hearst, knocked the cops to one side and amused themselves by slapping the candidate on the back, good hard slaps that made Mr. Hearst wince a bit, although he seemed to be tickled, grabbing at his hand and hailing him up-

In the storm centres around Mr. Hearst only the big husky fellows had a chance to keep their feet. Little men were buffeted and whirled out of the crowd, feet crushed and ribs sore. At one time there was danger of a serious accident. A frail picket fence in front of the overflowing picket fence in front of the overflowing grand stand held back perhaps 5,000 people that wanted to sally onto the football field and watch the candidate reopen the Cork-Tipperary scramble by tossing the pigskin to the referee. The fence held for a few minutes, but the press got so strong that a section of it let go and literally dropped hundreds from the grand stand incline onto the football field. Nobody was hurt. This, however, was more from downright good luck than anything else. The incident created a lot of confusion and excitement.

Mr. Hearst intended to appear at Celtic

Mr. Hearst intended to appear at Celtic Park at 2:30 o'clock, but he didn't get there until 4. He was nursing a severe cold in bed most of the day and applying slippery elm bark and lemon juice to a sorely rasped throat. He was informed that the Irish prize to more waiting for him and that he brigade was waiting for him and that would have to but in an appearance. The Hon. Clement J. Driscoll, whose business it is to straighten out the tangles that the Gilsey House confusion squad gets Mr. Hearst into, got him into a carriage with Mrs. Hearst and landed him eventually in the might of a whoming theoring in the midst of a whooping, cheering, rip-rollic dag crowd that had been waiting for nearly two hours.

Capt. Laves with a half dozen policemen tried to cut a lane through the mob, but they shoved and yelled to no advantage. Every foot of the way from the park entrance to the ball field the crowd had its will with Hearst. By main strength, and after a dozen men had been knocked endwise, the police got Mr. Hearst through a little gate on to the athletic field. Then he wanted to go to the grandstand, and, although Capt. Hayes argued with him, he insisted on having his way. There was another hand to hand and rough and tumble scrap to beat a way to the grand stand and another hand to hand and rough and tumble scrap to beat a way to the grand stand and the candidate was somewhat dishevelled when he found a haven there. Then Mr. Hearst decided that he wanted to go back to the field and the police had their work to do all over again. All the while hundreds of voices were yelling, "Speech, speech, speech," and Mr. Hearst was laughing and pointing significantly to his throat. Somehow the police managed to get him, a solemn and serious person named Whalen, and Father M. J. Henry of the Immigrant Girls' Home on the field. Father Henry took off his hat, bowed to the grand stand and made a speech which everybody cheered wildly and nobody heard. Father Henry said that he came to Celtic Park to have the pleasure of thanking the United Irish American societies for giving a benefit for the Irish Immigrant Girls' Home but that an additional reasure and Home, but that an additional pleasure and

"It gives me great pleasure," said he, "to present to you the next Governor of the Empire State, the Hon. William Randolph Hearst, who [A voice: Keeps his promises. Hooray!] will throw out a football and open the game between the counties of [Here, here, somebody, what are those counties? A voice: Cork and Tipperary, your Reverence] Cork and Tipperary." [Long applause and cheering.]

While Father Henry was speaking Mr.

While Father Henry was speaking Mr. Hearst saw the fence bulging out and heard its pickets creaking. He grabbed a cop "Get through the crowd and stop those people from crowding against that fence. If you don't look out somebody will be Before the cops could get there the barrier cracked and gave way. Those who fell into the ball field joined themselves to the mob already around Mr. Hearst and did their best to increase the racket. There were all sorts of yells that broke out of the general noise. The Irishmen out of the general noise. The Irishmen hailed Hearst as Governor, nominated him for President, demanded a lock of his hair and roared for a speech. He tagged off from talking and by sign language made it understood that his throat was raw.

Somebody found the football and handed it to him Capt Haves and a few cope.

Somebody found the football and handed it to him. Capt. Hayes and a few cops beat a few square yards clear around him and gave him elbow room for the star act of the day. The Cork and Tipperary gladiators lined up and gave a cheer. Mr. Hearst raised the pigskin up high over his head, lunged out with it and sent the ball flying out over the heads of the crowd twenty-five or thirty feet.

ball flying out over the heads of the crowd twenty-five or thirty feet.

The police formed in front of him and started for his carriage, but it was a slow and perilous passage. He was slapped on the back, hammered in the ribs by enthusiasts, pulled this way and that and finally landed safely laughing like a school-boy. As his carriage passed out of the grounds the crowd gave him a long and enthusiastic cheer.

thusiastic cheer. This afternoon Mr. Hearst will start on his final up-State speaking tour. To-night he will speak in Syracuse and Auburn. To-morrow afternoon he will address meet-ings in Seneca Falls, Waterloo, Geneva and Ings in Seneca rails, waterloo, deneva and Canandaigua, and to-morrow night he will speak in Rochester. THE REVOLT AGAINST HEARST

OLD TIME DEMOCRATIC LEADERS DECLARE FOR HUGHES.

Many Others Have Falled to Register -Leaders in Cattaraugus, Livingston and Niagara Countles Who Will Vote

the Republican State Ticket This Fall.

OLEAN, Oct. 28.-By arbitrarily taking away the management of his campaign from the regularly organized county committee and putting it into the hands of his Independence League William Randolph Hearst has aroused such deep resentment among those Democrats who for the sake of being regular would have otherwise supported him that a tour through the county reveals a larger proportion of Hughes Democrats in Cattaraugus than in any other part of the State. In of stay-at-homes among the Democrats. Why, it is asked, if Mr. Hearst is running as a Democrat, should the campaign be turned over to the Independence League, which has so little following that in Olean not one of the canvassers' books shows a single declared adherent? On the other hand, if Mr. Hearst is running as a league candidate why should a Democrat feel obliged to vote for him?

one district alone forty-seven Democrats refused to register at all, and the Republican canvass shows a very large percentage

Among the old time leaders of the Democratic party there is little hesitation in declaring that they will not vote for Hearst. Staley N. Wood of Hinsdale, who in a district where the normal Republican majority runs up in the thousands was de-feated for member of the Assembly by thirteen votes and for Congress by only thirty-three, has come out to-day with a long letter in the local paper refusing to vote for Hearst, in which he says:

"I am impressed with the thought that Mr. Hearst is open to the charge of duplicity and insincerity. While he pretends to be opposed to corporations he has placed his newspapers under a triple corporation and transferred them to the State of New Jersey in order to avoid personal responsibility. While he pretends to be opposed to bosses and bossism he receives from Charles F. Murphy, the boss of Tammany Hall, the nomination for the highest office in the gift of the people of the State."

when seen to-day Mr. Wood said: "I shallvote for Mr. Hughes, and in and around the town of Hinsdale it is hard to find any good Democrats who are not going to do the same. He will be the first Republican I have ever voted for for Governor, and I hope he will be the last, but Mr. Hearst is no Democrat." Democrat.

Hudson Ansley of Salamanca will also vote for the first time for a Republican Governor. Mr. Ansley said: "Both myself and my son will vote for Mr. Hughes, What else can a man do who believes in the principles of the Democratic party and has its best welfare at heart?"

August Seitz, a well known merchant of August Seitz, a well known in the Salamanca, was equally outspoken. "Mr. Hughes will get my vote this year, although I think I am a pretty good Democrat." he said, "Hearst makes a lot of claims about the labor vote, but I find among those that come into my place a great number who feel as I do,"

When asked to-day if they would vote for Hearst, J. L. Ryan of Salamanca and George A. Larkin and Louis Stowell of Olean all replied "No" with considerable vigor. As these men are representative of the younger element in the Democratic party in this county it is safe to say that old and young alike disown Hearst in Cattaraugus county. in Cattaraugus county.

Joseph H. Choate, chairman of the Judiciary Nominators, has written to the Citizens' Judiciary Nominators of Brooklyn as follows:

The movement to do away with all political nsiderations in the selection of candidates for the bench is to be a permanent public ervice, not dependent on the coming election of 1906 or of any other year.

The Constitution of the State has provided that our Judges shall be elected, but it was not the intention of the framers of the Connot the intention of the frame of the stitution that Judges should be elected by the whim or favor of the party bosses, but that they should be, in fact, the choice of the people, and that that choice should be based upon no other consideration than fit-ness for office.

I do not see how that intention can be carried out in any other way than by the absolute divorce of politics from the selection of judicial candidates.

When we can make the parties accept our choice so much the better, but we must seek always, not for the approval of parties, but to bring home to the electorate the fact that they, and not the parties, are to choose the Judges. We must so carry on our work that the judgeships shall be taken out of the party columns on the official ballot.

YIDDISH BLACKMAIL STORY. Men Accused of Extortion Say It's a Scheme to Get Even-Roof Chase. A merry little fight which ended in a chare over the roofs along Stanton street and the locking up of three prisoners in the Union Market police station last night has made the police of that many languaged precinct believe that there is a Yiddish branch of the Black Hand. Moritz Gutterman of 308 Stanton street, one of the prisoners, is charged with extorting $25 from Herman Silbergelt of $14 Stanton street on October 14. Silbergelt alleges that Gutterman threatened to wreck his house with a bomb if he didn't give up. William Hamner of 984 Halsey street, Brooklyn, and Ward B. Rulin of 347 West Twenty-third street,

All three prisoners, according to the police, after loitering around Silbergelt's house during the early afternoon, finally went to his rooms and demanded money of his wife. The woman told the police that when she refused the men threatened her with a knife. Neighbors heard the row and called the police. Gutterman escaped over the roofs, but was finally caught. The prisoners deny the charges against them and say that Silbergelt is trying to "get even" for a business row. tempted extortion. get even" for a business row.

hundred people went to the New Rochelle Theatre last night with tickets which they had bought for $1.50 in advance, expecting to hear a concert of "high class"

music under the management of Miss Elizabeth Campbell. The crowd found no sign of a concert at the theatre. The doors were closed and the building was in darkness. In the crowd were many of the local merchants who had paid $5 and the local merchants who had paid $5 and $10 for advertisements in the programme. At 8 o'clock William B. Gray, manager of the theatre, appeared. He said he had received a telephone message from Bridgeport, Conn., that Miss Campbell had been unavoidably detained there, but was then on her way to New Rochelle.

The ticket holders waited about for an hour, but neither Miss Campbell nor any of her singers appeared.

ALL HIS NINE LIVES GONE. Mollie, the Cat Ladder Climber, is Dead Man With Prizefighting Tendencies Ac--Janitor Happy.

Mollie is dead. Mollie was a big black tomcat who lived on the fire escapes in the rear of a flat house in West Eighty-ninth street. No one knows how he acquired the name of Mollie, for his name ought to have been Tom, but it is presumed that some of the youngsters in the neighborhood christened him.

At any rate Mollie made his appearance on the flat house fire escape about three weeks ago. No one in the house remembered ever seeing the cat before, and all efforts to capture it proved futile. At night the cat would sit outside of a kitchen window and meow at the top of its lungs. Generally a different window every night and the janitor's life wasn't worth living.

Mollie climbed up and down the iron ladder like a monkey. He managed to exist by rummaging through the garbage pails.

Many of the women in the house tried to coax the cat into their kitchen but he would coax the cat into their kitchen, but he would always take fright and scramble down the ladder to the landing below.

The janitor found the lifeless body of Mollie lying in the courtyard yesterday morning. Mollie may have fallen off the fire escape, but there are suspicions of foul

END OF ST. LOUIS BOODLE CASES. R. M. Snyder's Death Removes One of the Principals and a Witness Against Others.

Sr. Louis, Ock 28.-The killing of the millionaire promoter, Robert M. Snyder, in an automobile accident at Kansas City. practically ended all the celebrated Central Traction boodle cases, according to a statement made to-day by Circuit Attorney Sager. The Circuit Attorney said he would nolle pros the case against Snyder immediately, probably to-morrow. The perjury charge against Frederick G. Uthoff and the attempted blackmail charge against W. H. Ritter, both of whom are out of the city, will also be dropped, as Snyder was the principal witness against them.

Snyder's first conviction on a charge of boodling while the Central Traction bill was before the Municipal Assembly was procured through the evidence of Uthoff, who was a member of the Council, The attempted blackmail charge against Ritter was preferred by Snyder. It grew out of the Central Traction boodle case, which made Gov. Folk, who was at that time Circuit Attorney, famous.
